

The first Swiss laboratory on four wheels

Wednesday, 10 December 2008

The first Swiss laboratory on four wheels opens its doors at the beginning of 2009!...

The first Swiss laboratory on four wheels opens its doors at the beginning of 2009! It will allow the analyses of diverse substances such as water, essential oils, aromatic products, etc. directly in the nature.

Equipped with up-to-date facilities, the mobile-lab can travel quickly, everywhere, to make simple or more sophisticated physical and chemical analyses. It responds to the needs of the modern society, which tries to reach a maximal quality in a very short time.

As some analyses can contain some error due to the transportation of samples, the mobile-lab reacts by taking them in situ, which guarantees a maximal precision during the analyses.

Contact